

For immediate release:
February 18, 2016

Contact: Cathy Shea
856-642-6226

Dr. Jenny Rajan Accepted into American Speech-Language Hearing Association Leadership Development Program

Elkins Park, Pa - Jenny Rajan, AuD, CCC-A, FAAA, a clinical audiologist at the Pennsylvania Ear Institute of Salus University, was recently accepted into the American Speech-Language Hearing Association (ASHA) Leadership Development Program for Audiologists.

A year-long program for ASHA members with leadership potential, the Leadership Development Program encourages participants to develop leadership skills and give back to the profession through volunteering.

“I am thrilled to have been selected to the ASHA Leadership Development Program for Audiologists, especially since it is a competitive application process,” said Dr. Rajan. “I am particularly excited to attend the kick-off workshop in April, when all the selected participants will have the opportunity to meet with their learning team – who play a major role as the participants’ advisory board.”

Dr. Rajan has more than 13 years of teaching and professional experience. Her teaching experience includes working as a substitute instructor at New York Medical College, clinical preceptor at Westchester Institute for Human Development, and instructor at Temple University School of Medicine. She also worked as a clinical audiologist at Elmhurst Hospital Center, Hunterdon Medical Center, Bronx-Lebanon Hospital Center and Westchester Institute for Human Development and Medical Center.

Dr. Rajan graduated from Pennsylvania State University with a Bachelor of Science degree in communication sciences and disorders and a minor in human development and family studies. She received a master’s degree in audiology from Hofstra University and a Doctor of Audiology degree from the Salus University George S. Osborne College of Audiology. She is a member ASHA, as well as a Fellow of the American Academy of Audiology.

###

About Salus University

Salus University, founded as the Pennsylvania College of Optometry in 1919, today is a diversified, globally recognized professional academic center of learning that offers a wide range of degree programs in the professions of Optometry, Audiology, Physician Assistant, Public Health, Education and Rehabilitation for the Blind and Visually Impaired, Biomedicine, Occupational Therapy and Speech-Language Pathology. Salus operates four clinical facilities in the Philadelphia area that provide highly specialized vision, hearing and balance, and speech-language pathology services. The University has more than 1,100 students, including PhD candidates, and more than 12,500 alumni worldwide. For more information, please visit www.salus.edu.