

For Immediate Release
June 13, 2018

Contact: Alexis Abate
Director of Communications
215-780-1390
267.318.0351 (cell)

Middlebury Native Named Clinical Educator at Salus University

Elkins Park, Pa. – The Speech Language Institute (SLI) of Salus University welcomes Erika Cardamone, MS, CCC-SLP of Middlebury, Connecticut as a new clinical educator.

Cardamone earned her Bachelor of Science degree in Communication Sciences and Disorders from Syracuse University and her Master of Science degree in Speech-Language Pathology from Columbia University.

In her new role, Cardamone will oversee speech-language pathology students in Salus University's College of Education and Rehabilitation as they work with clients at SLI.

Cardamone has a wide range of experience in treating children and adults with communication and swallowing disorders. She has also co-presented her research at the American Speech-Language Hearing Association's national convention.

Prior to joining SLI, Cardamone worked as a speech-language pathologist for Jefferson University Hospital in Philadelphia.

###

About Salus University

Salus University, founded as the Pennsylvania College of Optometry in 1919, today is a diversified, globally recognized professional academic center of learning that offers a wide range of degree programs in the professions of Optometry, Audiology, Physician Assistant, Public Health, Blindness and Low Vision Studies, Biomedicine, Occupational Therapy and Speech-Language Pathology. Salus operates six clinical facilities in Philadelphia and Montgomery counties that provide highly specialized vision, hearing and balance, and speech-language pathology services. The University has more than 1,200 students and more than 14,000 alumni worldwide. For more information, please visit www.salus.edu.