Fostering the Next Generation of ODs

The Association of Schools and Colleges of Optometry (ASCO) recently launched a new program where prospective students interested in optometry can be matched with ODs to learn more about the profession. Eye Opener Sessions involve at least 30 minutes, in person or virtually, to promote optometry and answer questions about what it's like to be an OD. This is a great opportunity for alumni to influence the next generation of ODs. Click here to register, refer to someone who may be interested and for more information.
